

220-240V heating element test procedures.

Heating element test -use an ohmmeter to check heater resistance, resistance values should be around 90 ohms.

Sensor test— use an ohmmeter to check sensor resistance, resistance value at room temperature should be around 1 ohms. Sensor is polarity sensitive, red wire for positive probe, and yellow wire for negative/ground probe.